A VIRTUAL FIELD TRIP
THAT INCLUDES
EVERYTHING
BUT THE OINK

WHAT IS “THERE’S A PIG IN MY CLASSROOM”?

“There’s A Pig In My Classroom” is an interactive, hands-on virtual fieldtrip. This experience takes classrooms on a trip through the Fair Oaks Pig Adventure to see up close how pigs are raised in Indiana and across the United States.

Classrooms receive curriculum for pre- and post-lesson plans to prepare students for their 45-minute virtual connection via Zoom. The lessons also allow teachers to continue the conversation about pork after the virtual experience.

A PROGRAM WITH STEADY GROWTH....

In just three semesters, There’s A Pig In My Classroom has reached more than 18,000 students, growing in popularity in each semester.

Semester      # of Students Reached

Fall, 2020..... 4,115

Spring, 2021.....6,139

AND NATIONAL REACH!

There’s a Pig In My Classroom has reached students from 22 different states. Much of this reach has been thanks to partnerships with national companies and individual state pork associations.

TEACHER TESTIMONIALS

“We have really enjoyed your field trips this year! Leaps and bounds better than some that we have viewed!”

“My class loved this experience! The presenters were very knowledgeable and made the information interesting and engaging for my students. My students were full of questions even after the presentation ended and would love to do more similar types of virtual trips in the future.”

“The program was very unique and unlike anything my students had seen before. I almost preferred it to an in person field trip. The experience was fulfilling because it was live, rather than just showing a recorded video and I loved how instead of just telling, they actually showed.”

“I absolutely loved this program for my students. For most of my students they have never seen a pig in person. This was information that they would likely have never learned if it weren’t for this experience.”
